

THE KEY TO A GOOD LIFE IS A GREAT PLAN

Health TALK

DID YOU KNOW?

You should start using sunscreen on babies when they are 6 months old. For younger babies, keep skin covered with light clothing and a wide brimmed hat. Use the canopy on the stroller or car seat to provide shade.

What to expect

Don't forget your postpartum checkup.

It's easy for a new mom to neglect her own health. But it's very important to see your doctor or midwife six weeks after you give birth. If you had a cesarean section, you should also go two weeks after you give birth. At your postpartum checkup, your provider will:

- check to make sure you are healing well from childbirth.
- screen you for postpartum depression.
- do a pelvic exam to make sure your reproductive organs are returning to your pre-pregnancy state.
- let you know if you are ready to start having sex again and talk about birth control options.
- answer questions about breastfeeding and examine your breasts.

Crush cancer

Are you due for a screening?

Cancer screenings can help catch common cancers early. When caught early, they are most treatable. Some cancers can even be prevented with screenings. For people at average risk, the American Cancer Society recommends:

WHAT: Mammography

WHY: To catch breast cancer early

WHEN: Annual mammograms and clinical breast exams for women starting at age 40. Clinical breast exams every three years for women in their 20s and 30s.

WHAT: Colonoscopy

WHY: To catch or prevent colorectal cancer

WHEN: Colonoscopy for men and women every 10 years beginning at age 50. Other tests for colorectal cancer are also available; intervals vary.

WHAT: Pap and HPV screening

WHY: To catch or prevent cervical cancer

WHEN: Pap screening for women every three years beginning at age 21. Testing can end at age 65 for women with a history of normal Pap results. HPV tests should also be done every five years between ages 30 and 65.

Are you at risk? Do you have a family history of cancer? Are you obese, or do you smoke? You may be at higher risk for cancer. Ask your doctor if you need to begin screenings at a younger age or get them more often.

BRUSHING FOR TWO

When you're pregnant, you're eating for two — but you're also brushing for two. Being pregnant can be hard on your teeth and gums. Gum disease has been associated with pregnancy complications. After you give birth, if you have gum disease or tooth decay, germs from your mouth can be passed to your baby by kissing or sharing a spoon. When you take care of your teeth and gums, it can make a difference for your baby, both before and after birth:

- Brush your teeth at least twice daily using a fluoride toothpaste.
- Floss at least once a day and rinse daily with a fluoride mouthwash.
- Choose healthy foods like fruits and vegetables, and avoid sugary or starchy snacks and soda.
- Visit your dentist at least once during your pregnancy. He or she can clean your teeth and help you control any tooth decay or gum disease. A dental visit is safe any time during your pregnancy.

Finding Dr. Right

Make your PCP your partner in health

When you joined your health plan, you chose a primary care provider (PCP). Your PCP will provide or coordinate all your health care. If you need tests or treatments that your PCP can't provide, he or she will give you a referral. You should feel comfortable with your PCP. If you are not, choose a new one.

When you see your PCP, tell him or her about any drugs, vitamins or over-the-counter medication you take on a regular basis. Bring a written list with you.

It's important that your PCP knows about all your health care. Tell him or her about other providers you see, such as specialists. Include mental health or substance abuse care if you get it. Mention any medications or treatments other providers have prescribed for you. Ask other providers to send copies of any test results or findings to your PCP.

What's your type? For a list of participating providers, see MyUHC.com/CommunityPlan.

THE RIGHT DOSE

Depression is a serious, but treatable, condition. It is very common. Many people are helped by medicine for depression. Antidepressants are one of the most commonly used kinds of drugs. If your doctor suggests antidepressants, keep in mind:

1. You might need to try more than one drug. Some people feel better on the first one they try. Others need to try different drugs until they find the one that works best for them.
2. They usually take a while to work. Some drugs take at least six weeks until they make you feel better. Be patient, and keep taking your medicine as directed.
3. Most people notice side effects. However, they usually go away after a few weeks. Talk to your doctor if they don't.
4. Don't quit your medicine suddenly. You need to work with your doctor to taper your dose. If you quit suddenly, you might feel sick.

Follow up. If you are getting treatment for mental health, it's important to keep your follow-up appointments. If you were hospitalized, see your mental health provider within seven days after you leave the hospital.

Bringing up baby

Every well-baby visit is important.

Babies grow and change quickly. That's why it's important for your baby to have regular visits with his or her primary care provider. By age 2, your child should have had 10 well-baby visits. These well-baby visits are called KAN Be Healthy Exams.

Well-baby visits help the doctor get to know you and your child. They make sure your baby is healthy. They are also a good time for you to ask questions. Well-baby visits include:

- GROWTH CHECKS: Your child will be weighed and measured.
- TESTS: Your child will get needed tests. This includes lead tests by ages 1 and 2.
- SCREENINGS: Your child's vision, hearing and development will be checked.
- SHOTS: By age 2, your child will get shots for 14 diseases. Some vaccinations are given in combined shots. Most shots are needed more than once.
